

Free Lecture Series at Contra Costa Campus Topics to Range from Baseball to Cooking

By CSUH News Services

Cal State Hayward's Contra Costa Campus will present a free, public lecture series featuring some of its premier faculty.

The "Distinguished Faculty Lecture Series" will include three lectures, held on Thursday evenings at 7:30 p.m. from October through December in the Oak Room on campus.

Officials hope to build on momentum from the campus' summer "Concert in the Hills Series" with the lecture series.

The first lecture, Oct. 4, will be "Baseball and America's History." Professor Henry Reichman, Ph.D., chair of the CSUH History Department, will present an evening of baseball stories, all related to United States history. Reichman employs baseball trivia to illustrate important historical themes: business-labor conflict, immigration, economic and social mobility, race relations, urban-rural tensions, and the rise of mass society and mass culture.

Those attending will learn who really invented the game of baseball and where it started and hear about the great players' revolt of 1890 and its effect on how baseball is organized to this day.

"Gambling: What Are the Odds?" scheduled Nov. 8, will feature Michael Orkin, Ph.D.

Orkin, a CSUH statistics professor, is an author, software developer and nationally known authority on odds and games of chance.

He recently appeared to discuss lottery odds on CNN, NBC evening news, CBS evening news, NBC's Dateline, ABC's World News Tonight, and Discovery's On the Inside.

Orkin will discuss some of America's most popular gambling games, including lotteries, blackjack, craps, roulette, keno and sports betting.

Topics will include how to determine the chances of winning a game, what lottery odds really mean, popular gambling strategies and how they work, which games are the best and the worst; basic ideas of money management and whether you should make bets on the Internet.

On Dec. 6, culinary history will provide food for thought as Jessica Weiss, Ph.D., shares her thoughts on the years leading up to the modern women's movement.

"Kitchen Debates: Women, Cooking, and Public Life in the East Bay, 1957-1964" will focus in on a regular recipe column from the women's pages of the Oakland Tribune, published from 1957 through 1964.

Weiss will discuss the column's connections to gender and women's history, the results of her analysis of the recipes, foods and careers of East Bay women described in the column at this time in American women's history.

"The Lost Art Of Drawing The Line: How Fairness Went Too Far"

According to best-selling author and lawyer, Philip K. Howard:

- Today, the people we rely on to make value judgments-judges, doctors, teachers, politicians, and managers- are afraid of making obvious choice needed for society to function sensibly.
- For the price of a lawyer, anyone can transform his sense of entitlement into a legal claim.
- Politically correct reforms have become the enemy of freedom.
